"All That Breathes"

All That Breathes (2022) is an evocative and ruminative documentary by Indian filmmaker Shaunak Sen. He spotlights two New Delhi siblings who have dedicated nearly 20 years to rehabilitating injured birds of prey. The film reveals both the vulnerability and vitality that emerge as the brothers navigate environmental decline, economic precarity and ethnic violence.

This CCP event invites viewers to reflect on our varied experiences of a deeply conflicted and ecologically shifting world while also immersing ourselves in Sen's haunting vision of New Delhi's streets and skies.

With a discussion moderated by Ruchira Hantman, MA, MS, LCSW and Libby Bachhuber, AM, LCSW
